Areas of specialisation

BROAD Logic, philosophy of language, philosophy of science, causation.

NARROW Philosophical logic, conditionals, modality, semantics.

Employment

- Fulbright Visiting Scholar. November 2025–April 2026. Department of Philosophy, New York University, supervised by Kit Fine.
- Postdoctoral Researcher, July 2025–present. Department of Linguistics, University of Edinburgh. Part of the Communicating Causality project, supervised by Dan Lassiter.
- Postdoctoral Researcher, July 2023–June 2025. Institute for Logic, Language, and Computation (ILLC) and the Department of Philosophy, University of Amsterdam.

Education

- PhD Logic. ILLC, University of Amsterdam, 2018–2023.
Defended May 2023. Supervised by Katrin Schulz and Sonja Smets.
- MSc Logic. ILLC, University of Amsterdam, 2016–2018.
- Visiting student. University of Toronto, 2014–2015.
- BA Philosophy and English Literature, Trinity College Dublin. 2012–2016.

Teaching

Lecturer

1. Logical Analysis

BA Philosophy & Minor in Logic and Computation, University of Amsterdam. 2023.

An introduction to logic for undergraduate students. The goal of this course is to teach skills and knowledge that are useful for an analytical approach to philosophy. Essentially this course is about extending one's philosophical toolbox, adding tools that are regularly used in analytical approaches to philosophy of language, metaphysics, philosophy of mind, but also, for instance, analytical ethics.

2. Philosophical Foundations of Explanation

MSc Logic, University of Amsterdam. 2024.

What principles underlie our practice of giving and interpreting explanations? We approach this question using tools from philosophy, logic and linguistics. In particular, we will discuss what the words cause and because mean, and what information we take into account when we interpret them; that is, what information a causal model should contain. Along the way we will discuss new developments in the semantics of conditionals, evaluating proposals based on similarity, premise semantics and truthmaker semantics.

3. Philosophy of Language

MA Philosophy & MSc Logic, University of Amsterdam.

Co-taught with Elsbeth Brouwer. 2023.

This course provides an introduction to the contemporary analytical philosophy of language. We will discuss cognitivist, platonist and realist conceptions of meaning, and study a variety of topics, such as semantic externalism, translatability of language, communicative action and language acquisition. These subjects will be studied through primary texts of authors such as Frege, Wittgenstein, Putnam, Grice, Butler, Davidson and Quine.

4. Causal Inference: philosophical theory and modern practice

MSc Logic & MA Philosophy, University of Amsterdam. 2022.

In the first part of the course we study analyses of causation, both historical and contemporary. We will learn about the substantial progress researchers have recently made analysing causality. Among the questions we will consider are:

- How do we build a causal model of a scenario?
- What does the word “cause” mean?
- How do we imagine hypothetical alternatives to reality?

5. Hypothetical Reasoning: its development and impact

MSc Logic, University of Amsterdam. 2020.

This course investigates the development and moral implications of hypothetical reasoning. The course will consist of lectures on moral responsibility, causation, and applications in the law, as well as individual supervision for students to develop their own projects.

Summer Schools

Current Formal Models of Counterfactuals and Causation.

The North American Summer School for Logic, Language and Information \(NASSLLI\), Seattle, USA, June 23–27, 2025. Co-taught with Tom Wysocki.

Supervision

1. Master Thesis supervisor of Frank Goossens, March–June 2024, with Thom van Gestel.
2. Bachelor Thesis supervisor of Juliette Calf. April–June 2024.
3. Bachelor Thesis supervisor of Puck Voorham. April–June 2024. Winner of the 2024 Amsterdam AI Thesis Award.
4. Supervisor of individual project by Flip Lijnzaad, MSc Logic, September–October 2024.
5. Supervised fifteen students as part of the project Philosophical Foundations of Explanation, with each student giving a presentation and writing a final paper. January–February 2024.
Supervised Louis Bunt, Flavia Caradonna, Simon Chiu, Sarah Dukic, Arun Ganguly, Swapnil Ghosh, Frank Goossens, Laura Hernández Martín, Ruiting Jiang, Flip Lijnzaad, Mees Lursen, Kirti Singh, Alex Stan, and Ștefan Zotescu.
6. Supervisor of individual project by Frank Goossens, MSc Logic, September–October 2023, with Jean Wagemans.
7. Supervised ten student projects as part of Hypothetical Reasoning: its development and impact, with each student giving a presentation and writing a final paper. January–February 2020.
Supervised Billy Chan, Gerson Foks, Angelica Hill, Flavia Nährlich, Nachiket Sakhadeo, Grace Shao, Arie Soeteman, Laura Vetter, and Tianwei Zhang.

Sample of student feedback from course evaluations

“Dean is just an amazing lecturer. He explains complicated things in a very accessible way, provides illustrative examples, makes sure that people are following him through the class, his slides are perfectly structured. I might go on all day with the qualities.”

“I loved his accessibility, availability, clarity, passion for what he teaches.”

“The lecturers were amazingly structured, and Dean explained complex topics in a really clear manner. I appreciated how the lecturers went beyond the readings we had done for the session, helping us both to take review the concepts we had read and take a critical stance on the arguments.”

“Dean was very patient and friendly and could explain everything very clearly. He showed great empathy towards students, which was very welcome during this course.”

“He does a phenomenal job ... Give that man a raise.”

Complete course evaluations available upon request.

Outreach

1. Outreach activity, teaching logic to Italian high-school students, with a presentation on semantic paradoxes. University of Amsterdam. 12 February 2025.
2. Interview with Lab42 magazine about applications of my PhD research. 2022.
3. Interview for the podcast Talk That Science on applications of semantics and causal inference to law, with Nicolien Janssens, Thijmen Nuninga, and Nikki Weststeijn. 2021.
4. Talk at the ILLC Open Day, an event to showcase ILLC research to the public. 4 October 2019.
5. Interview for the podcast Logically Speaking, on paradoxes and decision theory, with Max van den Broek. 2017.
6. Philosophical Logic Explained for a Teenager. A non-technical introduction to philosophical logic. The Junior Philosopher. Project for HubSpot. 2016.
7. Interview in University of Toronto News for research on metaphysics. 2015.
